Attorney of Seattle DUI Firm Invited to Speak at Industry Conference in Chicago

SEATTLE, Wash. (October 11, 2010) – The Seattle DUI lawyers of The Cowan, Kirk & Gaston Law Firm are proud to announce that Ted Vosk, a criminal defense attorney at the firm, has been asked to present a workshop at this year's American Academy of Forensic Sciences annual conference in Chicago.

The presentation, entitled “Blood Alcohol Concentration (BAC) Evidence: Extrapolation, Interpretation and Testimony in the Post-NAS Era,” is representative of the work that The Cowan, Kirk & Gaston Law Firm handles frequently—inaccurate and inadmissible breathalyzer tests. This is the second year that Mr. Vosk has been asked to speak at the conference.

Mr. Vosk recently spearheaded an effort on behalf of the firm requiring that breath tests be judged with a “level of uncertainty” when presented as evidence in court. This movement has national implications and was born out of inconsistencies found in former lab tests (meant to evaluate BAC levels) in King County.

Ted is currently a legal and science writer, criminal defense attorney, and legal / forensic consultant. He is a proud member of the American Academy of Forensic Sciences and Mensa.

The Seattle DUI attorneys of The Cowan, Kirk & Gaston Law Firm are proud of Ted's passion and his many contributions to the firm.
